

CCFC would like to recognize one of our very own special Providers for being voted Top Doc in Occupational and Environmental Medicine as published in the July 2014 issue of Seattle Magazine! -

Dr. Archie Adams is a MultiCare Provider, Board Certified in Family Medicine with a specialty in Occupational and Environmental Medicine where he currently practices in Puyallup, WA. His hard work and dedication to serving patients have earned him yet another award presented to him in November 2014, that of a Fellowship in his specialty...a significant and impressive recognition for his expertise and accomplishments in his specialty. All of this in addition to volunteering faithfully every month since February 2010, nearly five years!

Dr. Adams isn't new to the concept of volunteering as he brings with him his previous experience of serving in a homeless shelter clinic in New York. We are not only grateful to Dr. Adams, but to his family, who share his 'free' time with us where he continues to serve after already seeing an increasing number of patients during the workday.

CONGRATULATIONS Dr. Adams! - You're amazing, intelligent, sensitive to the needs of the patients you see at Christ Community Free Clinic, willing to fill in where there's a need, and well liked by patients and fellow volunteers. Many volunteers have had the pleasure and privilege of serving with you where your love of teaching has benefited those working towards a degree in medicine or enhancing their skills in their current job setting.
